Discussion Questions

1. When you think of a leader living a congruently Christian life, what attributes come to mind?
2. What are some examples of compartmentalization of personal life from vocational life?
3. Do you think it is reasonable for someone in a position of leadership to be accountable to their board for behaviour in their personal life? Why?
4. Have you ever felt strongly that you would like to adopt a different value in a personal situation than would be expected in your leadership role? How did you resolve the issue? Did you rationalize?
5. As a leader, you represent your ministry to everyone. How comfortable are you with the depth and weight of that responsibility?
6. With respect to personal-life values, what experience might you share with someone just stepping into a Christian leadership role?
